

Health Resource Shortage Areas for Primary Care

Provider shortage areas are designated by the Tennessee Department of Health to include rational service areas that displayed the highest ratio of provider to total population based on information obtained from the provider survey for each county. A map of these shortage areas for 2003 is on the next page.